Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing this to apply for the role of Frontend developer position in your company. With professional experience of almost 3 years and gaining strong background in web developing through the Master's degree in Pace University, New York, I am confident that my skills will bring value to your company.

During my internship at Doceree, I initially focused on testing and bug fixing with the QA team to understand the system. With my dedication, the application performance improved by 25% through caching, code refactoring and bug resolution. Because of my contribution and hard work, the company offered me a full-time position as a Front-End Developer. Here, I continued to hone my skills by working on advertiser and publisher modules to implement dynamic, responsive and intuitive application with Angular framework by integrating RESTful APIs.

My manager recognized my strong learning capabilities and eagerness to take on new challenges, which led to my assignment to develop the in-house management portal. Working closely with my senior manager, I contributed to the project by implementing both front-end and back-end functionalities. On the back-end, I verified data and managed query responses to ensure accurate data flow to the front-end. This project was particularly impactful as it displayed real-time results across three time zones, highlighting my ability to handle complex, dynamic requirements.

Beyond my technical expertise, I am passionate about problem-solving and innovation, as demonstrated in projects like an online job portal with real-time inventory updates and a voice assistant powered by Python. In these projects, I also developed UML diagrams, including use case, class, and sequence diagrams, to effectively plan and design the application systems. These experiences have honed my skills in teamwork, communication and adaptive learning, qualities I am eager to bring to your company.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the possibility of discussing how my background skills and enthusiasm align with the needs of your company. Please find attached my resume for your review. I am available at your earliest convenience for an interview.
